

The Historie of

Hot. Come Kate, thou art perfect in lying downe:
Come, quicke, quicke, that I may lay my head in thy lap.

La. Go, ye giddy goose,

The musicke Playes.

Hot. Now I perceiue the diuell vnderstands Welsh,
And 'tis no maruell he is so humorous,
Birlady he is a good musition.

La. Then would you be nothing but musicall,
For you are altogether governed by humors:
Lie still ye thiefe, and heare the Lady sing in Welsh.

Hot. I had rather heare Lady, my brach howle in Irish.

La. Would'st haue thy head broken?

Hot. No.

La. Then be still.

Hot. Neither, 'tis a womans fault.

La. Now God helpe thee.

Hot. To the Welsh Ladies bed.

La. What's that?

Hot. Peace, she sings.

Here the Lady sings a Welsh song.

Hot. Come, Ile haue your song too.

La. Not mine in good sooth.

Hot. Not yours in good sooth? Hart you sweare like a com-fitmakers wife, not you in good sooth, and as true as I liue, and as God shall mend me, and as sure as day:
And giuest such sarcenet surety for thy othes,
As if thou neuer walkst further then Finsburie:
Sweare me Kate, like a Lady as thou art,
A good mouth-filling oath, and leane in sooth,
And such protest of pepper ginger-bread,
To veluet gards, and Sunday-Citizens.
Come, sing.

La. I will not sing.

Hot. 'Tis the next way to turne taylor, or be red-breast teacher;
and the indentures be drawne, Ile away within these 2. houres,
and so come in when ye will.

Glen. Come, come, Lord Mortimer, you are slow,
As Hot Lord Percy is on fire to go.

Exit.

Henry the 4th

By this our Booke is drawne, wee
And then to Horse immediatly.

Mor. With all my heart.
